

The Doll House of Eleanor Linn Traubman (b. 1969) & Natalie Fay Traubman (b.2008)

In 1975, Libby and Len Traubman drew plans for a doll house for their first child, Eleanor, born in November, 1969. They built it by hand from sheets of plywood and other materials from local lumber yards and hardware stores. Libby found wallpaper, flooring, and fabrics from which she fashioned curtains for each room. She furnished Eleanor's house with some new decor and some she'd kept from her own childhood in the early 1940s.

Forty years later in summer 2015, Libby and Len cleaned and restored the house they'd kept. Len made solar panels. Libby hand-made new curtains and carpets, and restored one room with a wooden floor, to pass on to their granddaughter, Natalie Fay, born in July, 2008.

Grandma Libby, Raychel (Natalie's mom), and Natalie Fay — July 2015

